LOCAL DENTAL ASSOCIATION PRESENTS CHECK TO LCCTC TO UNDERWRITE TESTING

The Dental Assistant students at the Lebanon County Career and Technology Center (LCCTC) gathered around Lebanon County Dental Association President Dr. Frederick Johnson as he presented a check for $5000 to help underwrite certification testing. The check was accepted by LCCTC Administrative Director Glenn Meck.

According to Meck, it was realized that taking and passing the radiology or infection control certifications would provide better opportunities for students by enhancing their employability.

"Our students come from all income levels and with the cost of the certification tests averaging $275 to $325, it placed the testing out of reach for most of our students," said Meck. "This contribution will subsidize more than half the cost of taking and passing the test the first time for students over the next two years."

The one-year Dental Assistant Program graduates 18 to 20 students each year, both high school students and intergenerational adult students. The program is a combination of on-the-job training and classroom instruction. Students receive training from other industry professionals while they learn. Without the certifications, graduates would have limited post-secondary employment opportunities.

"We are very appreciative of the partnership with the Dental Assistant OAC and the local dental association to help build stronger futures for our students. This donation is a win-win for the student, who can obtain additional industry-standard certifications, and for the dental office that will have a certified and dedicated employee," concluded Meck.

"Take charge of your future" is more than a slogan of the LCCTC, it is a promise to each student. For more information on LCCTC program offerings or to apply, call 717.273.8551 or visit the website at www.lcctc.edu.

Hot Havana Night

Commercial Art brought that Latin Beat, with prom dresses and tuxedos in the annual fashion show. Once again, "The Glass Slipper" provided gowns for student models to parade down the runway. Central PA Tuxedo supplied the formal wear for the guys promoting the GQ looks for all your special events. Models sported roses donated by Hendricks Flower Shop, Lititz. Students from many classes volunteered to be models, dressers and stage hands.

The Glass Slipper is sponsored by Lebanon County Commission for Women, TempForce, Lebanon Valley Chamber of Commerce Athena Women, Lebanon Family Health Services, COMP Assist and I.A. Design.

They offer young ladies the opportunity to go to prom in a beautiful "gently used" dress for only $10.

Central PA Tuxedo, Lebanon's local formal wear dealer, has served Lebanon area schools for over 30 years. Currently located at 9th & Chestnut Streets in Lebanon, they are in the process of building a new shop located at Poplar Commons, 8th & Poplar Streets, Lebanon. The new shop will be open by April 1, 2018 so students may stop by and choose their prom attire. Prom discount flyers are available.

Law Enforcement Students Listen to Presentation on Education Programs within the Lebanon County Correctional Facility

Sgt. Dan Waltz and Tina Litz spoke to Mrs. Mays' law enforcement students about Corrections, more specifically the Lebanon County Correctional Facility. Ms. Litz is the Director of Training at LCCF. She instructs the new and veteran correctional officers in training and educational classes that have been accredited through the Pennsylvania Department of Corrections. Sgt. Waltz has been a correctional officer for the past 21 years at LCCF and was recently promoted to the rank of Sargent on the midnight shift. Sgt. Waltz and Ms. Litz spoke to the students about their experiences within a prison setting and the daily responsibilities of being a correctional officer. The students had the opportunity to learn about the aspects of a career in corrections.

Special Thanks to Sgt. Dan Waltz and Tina Litz for their presentation to Mrs. Mays' Law Enforcement class!

Practical Nursing Program Updates

On February 21, 2018, nursing students did blood pressures and health education at ASK Foods in Palmyra. Additionally, the Practical Nursing students educated employees on a variety of health-related topics including nutrition, decreased salt intake, back-to-school snacks, and healthy lifestyles. The day proved to be successful for the attendees and the students.

The Practical Nursing program received new members—a simulation mother and baby. They now have a maternity mother that will simulate giving birth.

The new simulator was purchased through grants and will enhance the maternity portion of the PN curriculum.

The Practical Nursing program CELEBRATED 60 YEARS OF NURSING EDUCATION AND OUR 100TH CLASS on March 13, 2018. Health checks, refreshments, simulation demonstrations (maternity, intensive care, infant), tours, prizes, games (nursing trivia) were provided.

What are nurses? We are there when you enter the world, there when you leave it and for everything else in between!
